You don’t have to wait until you are a faculty member to involve the public in your research. Get started today!

This workshop will help you understand what broader impacts is, how to incorporate them in your research, and brainstorm ways to engage the public.